

This is a financial report for Apple Inc.

Revenue has increased by 10% year over year.

Operating income is the profit realized from a business's operations.

Operating income was $100 billion.

The balance sheet discloses assets, liabilities, and shareholders' equity.

Cash flow from operating activities is interpreted as the cash generated by the company's core business.

The company faces various risks including market competition.
Research and development expenses were $20 billion.
Net income reached a record high this quarter.

This page intentionally left almost blank.

a a a a